

Adam Hopkins

Member

P: 479-856-6081

M: ahopkins@roselawfirm.com

Adam works with companies and business owners in intellectual property and other complex litigation, particularly in federal courts. He handles a broad variety of cases ranging from trademark and patent infringement to multimillion-dollar contractual disputes. His clients include numerous universities from around the country, multinational companies headquartered abroad, as well as local small- and mediumsized businesses in the Walmart vendor community. He conducts forensic audits of intellectual property licensees and has litigated dozens of cases under the federal Plant Variety Protection Act.

SERVICES

- Appellate Advocacy
- Commercial/Business Litigation
- E-discovery
- Federal Litigation
- Forensic Audit
- Intellectual Property Litigation
- Plant Variety Protection Act
- TTAB Proceedings

INDUSTRIES

- Agriculture
- Information Technology
- Intellectual Property
- Retail

EDUCATION

University of Arkansas School of Law, J.D., 2006

University of Arkansas, B.S.B.A. Accounting, 2003

EXPERIENCE

- Conducted forensic audits of intellectual property licensees to assess compliance
- Managed e-discovery in federal matters involving millions of documents
- Obtained reversals in appeals before the Arkansas Supreme Court and Arkansas Court of Appeals
- Litigated Plant Variety Protection Act cases across the country, including one suit against 26 separate defendants
- Obtained Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) in Lubbock, TX, authorizing use of federal marshals to conduct surprise seizure of corporate records
- Represented various intellectual property owners in enforcement of trademark, copyright, trade secret, and patent rights
- Defended parties accused of intellectual property infringement
- Represented Walmart vendors in federal litigation against foreign manufacturers
- Advanced qui tam action under False Claims Act stemming from USDA guaranteed loans

AFFILIATIONS

- Arkansas Bar Association
- Washington County Bar Association